Student Sit-ins Arrested and Jailed in Calif.

By JOHN WOOD

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — More than 800 University of California students staged an all-night sit-in inside the school's administration building until they were arrested en masse today by highway patrol officers, police from nearby cities and sheriff's deputies.

A phalanx of police cordoned off the buildings—Sproul Hall—to sympathizers and onlookers massed during the early morning hours. Other officers took students—some protesting limp—by buses waiting to carry the rebels to the county prison farm. More than 100 police officers were involved.

The students refused Chancellor Edward Strong's plea that they disperse peacefully. The young men and women had gathered in Sproul Hall to protest the administration's refusal that they give in to demands that charges be dropped against four students.

The students are leaders of the Free Speech Movement which has been demanding "full political rights" on the campus. The acknowledged leader of the movement, Mario Savio, was among those carted away to jail on the first bus.

The arrests were ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown shortly after midnight.

The university had charged Savio and three others — Art Goldberg, his sister Jackie, and Brian Turner — with violating university rules forbidding on-campus membership and fund solicitation for off-campus organizations.

The arresting process was slow. Police moved in teams to drag limp bodies from the building's fourth floor. The teams

Many Believe Way to End S. Viet Nam War Is to Send Bombers Over N. Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Can victory be snatched from South Viet Nam's exhausted war only by a flight of bombers over Communist North Viet Nam?

Planners in Saigon and Washington have been weighing the possibilities of expanding the war outside South Viet Nam.

Since the Viet Cong war began draining blood and treasure in 1960, America has faced three alternatives.

The first is to get out altogether, turning over South Viet Nam to the Communists.

The second alternative — the one which has been followed up to now — is to shore up the Saigon government with money, supplies, arms and advisers, in the hope that Saigon will one day be able to hold its own.

The third is to move into the fight directly with U.S. combat troops and a frontal attack on North Viet Nam or even Communist China.

The first alternative and all its variations, including neutralization of South Viet Nam, have been rejected by both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Hopes of winning by the second method appear increasingly forlorn. The Saigon government appears less capable of holding its own than it was 10 years ago when South Viet Nam became independent of France as the indirect result of a smashing Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu.

The third alternative, therefore, which could lead either to a new Korea or a third world war, has come under new scrutiny.

Among the supporters of direct attack on North Viet Nam is Dr. Bernard Fall, a noted French historian and author specializing in Indochina problems. Fall has argued for years that while the United States is tactically weak in Viet Nam it has strategic strength which should be used.

Fall says on the basis of his trips to North Viet Nam that the Hanoi regime is confident it can defeat the United States in the field of guerrilla warfare but that Hanoi fears American bombers. North Viet Nam has a small but growing industrial plant which is highly vulnerable to air raids and which Hanoi would hate to lose, he contends.

Some Pentagon and State Department officials believe Hanoi would call a halt to the war in the South if its industries were threatened.

Others have argued that at least Communist supply points and infiltration depots outside South Viet Nam should be bombed. Hanoi has charged in recent months that this is going on now, and Washington has declined comment on the charges.

One high Vietnamese official said:

"As things stand now, South Viet Nam is lost. Our only hope is the salvation that might come as the result of a final showdown between the United States and the great Communist powers."

Despite these arguments, many officials here believe expanding the war into North Viet Nam would have little effect on the war in the South. For one thing, it is doubtful that Hanoi could turn off the Viet Cong's campaign even if it wanted to.

The Viet Cong's strength has been broadened to some extent by infiltrators from North Viet Nam, and the rate of infiltration reportedly has increased in the past year. The Viet Cong also has been receiving limited quantities of arms and ammunition from outside the country.

Political and military guidance also has continued to flow from Hanoi to the Viet Cong through advisers and organizers sent to the South.

Despite these contacts with Hanoi, the Viet Cong remains essentially a South Vietnamese organization. The Viet Cong gets its food from peasants and the overwhelming majority of its weapons from government posts it overruns.

Some feel that rather than discouraging the Viet Cong, the bombing of cities in the North would only spur the guerrillas to greater efforts against Americans and would enlist many fence-sitters on the Viet Cong side.

And the possibility of halting Viet Cong infiltration of men and material by bombing seems small in view of the difficulty of spotting jungle routes and depots used by the guerrillas.

A high-ranking American official said:

"Bombing North Viet Nam would certainly do our side some psychological good. There would at least be the satisfaction of hitting at the Communist high command. But I'm afraid we are still going to be stuck with our war down here. This just isn't the kind of war in which you can hope to stop the other guy with saturation air raids. The game may have to be played by another set of rules."

Everyone Talks at Hearing Except Baker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bobby Baker hearings exploded today into a shouting match today with special Rules Committee counsel Lennox P. McCloskey calling Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a liar.

"You are absolutely, unalterably untrue in that statement," yelled McCloskey, a white-haired 74-year-old attorney.

Williams had said that he had told McCloskey he had additional information about government contracts handled by the McCloskey Construction Co.

But, he said, McCloskey was not interested in pursuing the information unless it involved Baker and other figures in the current hearing.

That's when the explosion came.

"Just a minute," shouted Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. "This is an impertinence such as I have never before seen. This is the first time an employee of the Senate has called a senator a liar."

"He has disqualified himself," Williams interjected that he did, too, make such a statement on last Friday.

"I deny emphatically any word of it," McCloskey said. "There is not an ounce, not an element of truth in it."

Faubus' Special Meet to Promote Bonds for City and State Roads

Faubus Budget Greater Than Cash Available

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus presented his construction program to the Legislative Council today and his spending suggestions totaled at least $1,700,000 more than the amount which apparently will be available.

The construction fund was set by the comptroller's office last week at $7 million, of which $3.5 million is allocated for construction at institutions of higher learning under existing law.

Faubus' suggestions involved only non-college construction and its figures totaled $5,200,000.

Student Sit-ins

slapped number cards on the youths, photographed them and whisked them away to the buses.

Hundreds of others were sleeping, cuddled together for warmth under blankets and makeshift covers, on the third and second floors of the large building. At a second-floor window, members of the student body climbed ropes into the hall to join in the protest. Two discovered, the influx was greater than the evacuation.

Originally, 1,000 students crowded the hall, but many left when the campus police ordered the doors locked Wednesday night. Those who remained were not arrested but police warned them to leave.

They refused. They prepared for a long stay. The Free Speech Movement supplied punch, snacks and sandwiches. Those trapped in the building chanted and sang.

Then early today the word came that the Alameda County sheriff's office, the State Highway Patrol, and Berkeley and campus police were preparing to clear the building and arrest its occupants.

Chancellor Strong asked the demonstrators to "immediately disperse."

The chancellor's plea was met with vacuous stares and passive rejection.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — More than 800 University of California students took over the campus administration building in an all-night protest demonstration answered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown with an alert to law-enforcement officers for possible mass arrests.

The Berkeley campus students — determined to free four of their leaders from disciplinary action — remained inside the building — Sproul Hall — after the doors were locked.

Originally, 1,000 students were involved in the demonstration, but many went home when university police ordered the doors locked.

Leaders of the group said they would not leave until disciplinary action was dropped against four self-styled free speech leaders.

Campus police warned students to leave after the building was locked at 7 p.m. but no arrests were made.

It turned into a fun-filled night for the demonstrators — complete with folk singing, Charlie Chaplin movies and assembly-line sandwich counters.

Mario Savio, philosophy junior, and three others were cited for breaking university regulations. The citations sparked the demonstration — the fourth at the UC campus since early October.

New York Manhattan born Savio, 21, is the accepted leader of the rebel group. He roamed the hallways Wednesday night with a megaphone, directing activities.

The other students threatened with disciplinary action are Arthur Goldberg, his sister Jackie and Brian Turner.

All four participated in Oct. 1-2 sit-in demonstrations in Sproul Hall, demanding more political freedom for students. Students later organized into a group called the Free Speech Movement.

Savio and Goldberg were cited for "entrapping a police car" and Savio for "biting and threatening" police officers in the October demonstration. Miss Goldberg was cited for encouraging students to prevent police from closing doors, and Turner for forcefully resisting a police officer.

In addition to their demand for dropping disciplinary action against the four, Savio said the

The human voice is perhaps the most fascinating and miraculous kind of communication known to man, although most Arkansans do not know how speech is created nor how words are transmitted, via sound waves, from one person to another.

How this "speech chain" evolved, how machines can talk to other machines, and how artificial mechanisms can enable a human being without a voice to talk, are a few of the subjects to be explored in a special scientific telephone program to be presented here Dec. 4 by Curt Johnston, Bell science demonstrator before the Rotary Club.

The program was arranged for the group by Bill Wray.

that McLendon remove himself from his post as special counsel.

"I've got a right," said McLendon. "I'm not going to sit here and be publicly misrepresented."

Williams sat quietly while Curtis and McLendon exchanged sharp comments. During a lull, he commented that McLendon had a perfect right to state his understanding of the conversation.

Williams, who furnished much of the information that triggered the Baker probe, declared the Rules Committee might find it "very interesting" if it did look into various government construction projects handled by the McCloskey company.

The angry squabble took place while William K. Stewart, financial vice president of McCloskey Co., was testifying about procedures in figuring insurance premium rates.

Don B. Reynolds, a Silver Spring, Md., insurance man, testified Tuesday that a $35,000 overpayment by the McCloskey firm of an insurance performance bond was really a political payoff to the Kennedy-Johnson campaign fund. Reynolds said he was the "bag man" for Baker and contractor Matthew H. McCloskey in the deal.

Curtis and Stewart verbally tiffed over failure of the McCloskey company to provide records Curtis had requested through a government agency.

Perishes in Fire

SEARCY, Ark. (AP)—Robert Brown, 67, of nearby Gurn Springs, died Wednesday in a fire that destroyed his house. His body was found by two hunters, Coroner Allen Foster said.

McCloskey company to provide records Curtis had requested through a government agency.

"They could do it better than we could," Stewart said of providing details on projects the McCloskey company had worked involving federal funds. McCloskey, 71, former ambassador to Ireland, took the witness chair Wednesday and said Reynolds had lied.

"He hasn't told you the truth once," he said.

A WALL PHONE helps make Mom's day in the kitchen less hectic, and those coffee-time chats more enjoyable. The kitchen, after all, is her office, and a telephone is a "must." The wall telephone is handy, but out of the way, and it's available in the decorator colors she's most likely to choose . . . pink, yellow, beige or white.

A PRINCESS® PHONE is a truly personal extension phone for your own "princess" . . . or for yourself. It's a space-saving natural for any room in the home, but the light-up dial makes it an especially appropriate bedroom phone. The Princess phone is available in five colors . . . white, beige, pink, blue or turquoise.

A DESK PHONE makes the den as convenient as Dad's own office, for privacy in making and taking calls. Dad would probably like a beige, green or white one for his den, but for Mom's sewing room, maybe a pink or blue one would fit better. Desk phones are available in all five colors.

LBJ Asserts Very Little in 1st Year

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, far more wrapped up in home problems than foreign ones, has had a year to prepare himself for asserting world leadership.

He has asserted very little of it yet in any truly visible way. Just because his foreign experience is limited, it remains to be seen how good he is in this field, or if he is good at all.

At this moment American foreign leadership is beginning to look a little beat up and tattered. Two good examples: the disintegrating war in Viet Nam and this country's rickety NATO alliance with the West Europeans.

But he must prove himself soon, for time is running out on him.

Today two of his biggest immediate problems were in his lap, seeking solution: What to do about the Soviet Union in the United Nations and how to win the Vietnamese war or at least not lose it in total disaster.

Perhaps in his first year, when he had simply inherited the presidency, Johnson was reluctant to be pushy in foreign affairs, wondering if he could claim the full endorsement of the nation.

He can have no such reluctance now after the approval he got in his landslide election victory.

He has provided none of the sense of life and movement that distinguished President John F. Kennedy in foreign affairs, even when he accomplished little or blundered, as he did in the Cuban invasion disaster of 1961.

In time the action and goodwill Kennedy put into foreign affairs may be considered his greatest contribution to the presidency. At the same time, he was no match for Johnson in getting programs through Congress.

Johnson, as President since Kennedy's death, necessarily has had final say in this country's foreign decisions. But they have had none of Kennedy's shine if only for the reason that while Kennedy acted in full view of the nation and the world with his decisions and his programs, Johnson has called the shots most of the time from off-stage and out of view, using aides as emissaries.

Since that fatal Nov. 22, 1963, in Dallas, Johnson seems to have had three main occupations, all of them domestic: getting programs through Congress, running for election, and in the weeks since then at his Texas ranch getting his 1965 budget and programs ready or the Congress returning in January.

In his first year Kennedy put the Peace Corps in motion, stepped up the Vietnamese war, ordered the resumption of nuclear tests after the Soviet Union broke the test-ban moratorium, met with the then Soviet premier, Nikita Khrushchev, in Vienna, with French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris and with then British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in London.

Johnson inherited a bad situation in Viet Nam, but it has steadily been getting worse. Just a few weeks before he took office, President Ngo Dinh Diem was assassinated and a new government took over. Since then, one regime after another has been toppled. Meanwhile, the Communist guerrillas of North Viet Nam have been making hash of the resistance put up by the American-backed South Vietnamese, who at this minute seem to be falling apart.

Now the American ambassador to Saigon, Maxwell D. Taylor, is home to confer with Johnson today on how to win or at least escape disaster. Defeat may mean the loss of all of Southeast Asia to Red China.

The decisions Johnson makes now will be fateful. Today at the United Nations, this country faced a showdown, unless an escape or some other solution is found. The reason:

Rock after Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Prather, and Mary Della and attending on Tuesday the Fine Arts Club Christmas luncheon and Zither concert by nationally known recording artist, Ruth Welcome.

the Soviet Union's refusal to pay its share, $52.6 million, of the world organization's peace-keeping costs.

Under U.N. rules a member that doesn't pay its dues can't vote. This could mean the threatened to walk out if it can't vote. This could mean the smash-up of the United Nations unless some way out is found. Relations among the NATO Allies are increasingly rocky. The United States isn't solving anything. Even its proposals to defend Europe with a 25-vessel fleet armed with Polaris nuclear missiles has bogged down.

Johnson's order to use American planes in rescuing hostages held by Congo rebels has caused a storm. And with Khrushchev thrown out, Johnson doesn't know what to expect from his successors in the Kremlin.

Congo Revolt Refuses to Lie Down

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — The rebel "Congolese People's Republic" in Stanleyville is dead, but the revolt in the northeastern Congo refuses to lie down.

Disorganized, its lines of communication shattered by seizure of the rebel capital, its leaders hiding or in flight, the Communist-backed insurrection is being driven into the dark rain forests and impenetrable bush.

Premier Moise Tshombe's tough mercenary fighters from South Africa, Rhodesia and Belgium go in shooting when they capture towns and rescue white hostages, but the rebels close in behind them as their armed columns roll out.

For the South African mercenary commander, Maj. Michael Hoare, the difficulty of getting to grips with his enemy raises the prospects of a long, dirty war.

A military solution is not enough. There must be some sort of political solution as well, says the 46-year-old Dublin-born veteran of war behind the Japanese lines in Burma and in Tshombe's secessionist Katanga.

Some foreign military observers believe it will be months, possibly years, before it is safe to travel through the rebel area without a strong military escort. Hoare's mercenaries move in trucks bristling with guns. Every tiny hamlet, every crossroads and every clump of bush where ambushers could lurk is sprayed with machine-gun bullets.

Rarely do the mercenaries see anyone as they drive by.

counted only six humans and two goats while traveling an entire day through rebel territory with Hoare's men. Four were od, decrepit men and two were women.

But the mercenaries often find food still bubbling in pots. Hoare's biggest problem is to consolidate his winnings. He has too few men to spread them around to hold captured towns. Big centers can be held, but they may have to be supplied from the air.

At the moment, all evidence points to a complete lack of rebel central organization. Their radio network fell apart when Stanleyville fell into government hands.

Reports received in Kharloun said a number of wounded rebels are being treated in southern Sudan hospitals. But Sudanese officials deny that rebel President Christophe Gbenye and his key lieutenants have crossed into the Sudan.

Death Penalty Abolished in Many States

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Babylonians drowned murderers; the Israelites stoned Sabbath breakers; the Assyrians impaled the guilty; the Romans had an extra-special way of dealing with citizens who murdered close relatives.

They sewed the victim up in a sack with a dog, a cock, a viper and an ape. Then the sack was cast into the sea or river.

Last year in the United States, 21 men were put to death by legal authorities in entirely legal ways. Six were gassed, 13 were electrocuted and two were hanged. The youngest was an 18-year-old Negro in Georgia; the oldest a 55-year-old white man in Arizona.

The crimes they committed are recognized universally as heinous: murder, rape and kidnapping. But, in this century - and there are notable exceptions - that's the way more and more Americans, like people all over the world, are viewing the death penalty.

Last March, the Kentucky House voted to abolish capital punishment. Although the bill died in the Senate, that's the first time the perennial measure had traveled that far.

Early this month, voters in Oregon approved a law to take the death penalty for murder out of the state constitution. When Gov. Mark Hatfield proclaimed the vote - he immediately commuted to life the death sentences of three condemned slayers - the death penalty will be dead in Oregon.

The 21 executed by civil authorities in the United States last year were, according to Federal Bureau of Prison records, the smallest number executed in any year in the nation's history. From 1930, the earliest for which detailed statistics are available, until 1949, at least 100 were so dispatched each year.

Equally to the point is that capital punishment is as good as dead in many states where it remains on the books. Only 12 states recorded executions in 1963. Seven states haven't conducted an execution in a decade.

A year ago, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California, an implacable foe of capital punishment, pointed to 10 1/2 months without a legal execution in his state and declared: "It really means that capital punishment has been repealed by the courts."

At the moment, 42 states, the District of Columbia and the federal government impose capital punishment. It is illegal in six states - Michigan, Wisconsin, Maine, Minnesota, Alaska and Hawaii - and, for all practical purposes, in Rhode Island and North Dakota.

On the world scene, since 1859 capital punishment has been abolished (except, as a general rule, in wartime or under martial law; in Austria, Colombia, Latvia, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Panama, Portugal, Romania, San Marino, the Dominican Republic, Sweden, Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Honduras, Norway, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Perhaps the most prominent voice raised against abolition of the death penalty is that of J. Edgar Hoover, since 1924 director of the FBI

UA Poultry Team Best in the U.S.

CHICAGO (AP) - The University of Arkansas has been named top team in the 41st annual national intercollegiate poultry judging contest.

The eleven college and university teams entered in this year's competition were judged in four categories - both as teams and individually. The categories were: all-around judging; market products; production and breed selection.

Oklahoma State took second place in the contest and Southern Illinois University was third.

The awards were made at a banquet Wednesday.

Pursuit Seeks 500 Hostages in the Congo

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) - A mercenary-led government column penetrated further into the northeast Congo today in pursuit of rebels believed holding 500 whites as hostages. They found five more dead Europeans.

The rebels reportedly fled to Watsa, near the Sudanese border, as a government force of 30 mercenaries and 200 Congolese soldiers neared Bunia, 350 miles east of Stanleyville.

Bunia had a white population of 250, most of them Greeks, but the Congolese army found only two Roman Catholic priests there. The rebels were believed to have taken the other whites with them to join hostages already at Watsa.

Reports of the Congolese advance through rebel territory were fragmentary. Latest word said the government column was headed toward Paulis, southwest of Watsa.

At Mambasa, south of Paulis, the mercenaries said that two Belgians, a Frenchman, a German and an unidentified missionary were found slaughtered.

In Khartoum, capital of Sudan, the self-styled rebel defense minister Gaston Soumialot, claimed Wednesday that the Belgians rather than the rebels killed the whites in Stanleyville, his charge was contradicted by the account of every white survivor of the Stanleyville massacre.

Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe left Paris Wednesday night and flew home to Leopoldville after three days of talks with President Charles de Gaulle and other French officials. Tshombe said the talks were profitable but there was no indication France had made any specific commitments of aid.

The nation's most famous crime fighter said: "It is my opinion that when no shadow of a doubt remains relative to the guilt of a defendant, the public interest demands capital punishment be invoked where the law so provides."

And, he went on, "The professional law enforcement officer is convinced from experience that the hardened criminal has been and is deterred from killing based on the prospect of the death penalty."

Still, the pendulum is swinging the other way.

State Cold in North and Rain in South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A cold front slanting across Arkansas is bringing the state a mixture of weather - from freezing drizzle and snow in the northwest section to heavy rains in the southeast portion.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said occasional rains would continue throughout much of the state through Friday, with some snow or freezing rain likely in the northwest.

By early morning, temperatures in that section had dropped to the low 30s, while South Arkansas had mercury readings as high as 60 degrees.

Heavy rainfall hit the central and southern sections Wednesday night, with Pine Bluff reporting 2.25 inches during the 24 hour period ending at 6 a.m. Little Rock reported 1.36 inches and El Dorado 1.40. Memphis received 2.49 inches.

The rains came during a tornado and severe weather alert for the area that expired at 4 a.m. today.

Radar at Little Rock early today showed an area of light drizzle or light snow in North Central Arkansas, but temperatures were in the 40s and 50s and no accumulation was expected.

Maximum temperatures ranging from the 40s in the northwest to around 70 degrees in the southeast were predicted for today, with overnight low readings from the mid 30s northwest to mid 60s southeast.

Maximum readings Wednesday ranged from 52 degrees at Walnut Ridge to 69 degrees at Texarkana. Overnight low readings ranged from 32 degrees at Harrison to 60 degrees at El Dorado.

All Americans Display Skill in Cage Wins

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

All-America Bill Bradley of Princeton and Dave Bing of Syracuse displayed their basketball finesse to the best degree, but the headlines went to Maryland's Neil Brayton.

Brayton flipped in a 40-foot, one-hand push shot with just four seconds left on the clock to give the Terps a 72-71 victory over Penn State. It was the highlight of Wednesday night's action on collegiate hardwoods.

Maryland led by 70-67 with 23 seconds left, but Carver Clinton's basket and two free throws by Ray Saunders put the Nittany Lions ahead with 11 seconds to go. Then came Brayton's game-winning one-hander from near midcourt.

Bradley paced Princeton's Ivy League champs to an 83-74 triumph over Lafayette with 29 points. He got 10 of them in the last five minutes after the Leopards rallied to within one point at 68-67.

Bing tossed in 20 points and handed out 11 assists in leading the seventh-ranked Syracuse team to an easy 127-67 triumph over American U.

Kansas State, No. 8, the only other team in the pre-season Associated Press Top Ten to play, whipped Creighton 96-82 behind Jeff Simons' 22 points.

Tennessee, rated a title threat in the Southeastern Conference, and Texas Tech, favored to win the Southwest Conference, impressed in their openers. The Volunteers crushed Richmond 97-66 as Red Robbins scored 18 points. The Red Raiders' wall-ped McMurtry 114-70 behind Norman Reuther's 20 points.

Bob Trupin's 32 points led Yale to a 77-71 victory over Colgate and Ohio State routed South Dakota 86-54 on a 50 per cent shooting average.

They Didn't Want That Hungarian

NEW YORK (AP) — Nobody drafted Pete Gogolak in the National Football League last year. It took a strong sales talk to convince the Buffalo Bills they should take the Hungarian-born place kicker from Cornell in the 12th round of the American Football League draft.

Buffalo has been thanking its lucky stars for picking Gogolak since the night in Tampa, Fla., when he booted a 57-yard field goal in an exhibition game. It was appropriate that his Thanksgiving Day performance gave him The Associated Press' recognition as the AFL Player of the Week.

The Bills' 10-game losing streak had been snapped by Boston Nov. 15. A defeat by San Diego on Thanksgiving Day would have capped Buffalo's lead to one-half game, with a big rematch with Boston still to be played.

Buffalo had rallied twice from 10-point deficits and had tied the score against the Chargers at 24-24. A pass interception and some quick running plays set up the field-goal attempt. Gogolak, with his unorthodox soccer-style kicking, booted the ball 32 yards with eight seconds to go and Buffalo had won 27-24.

Houston Deal for Howard Is Set Aside

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Outfielder Frank Howard of the Los Angeles Dodgers was as good as traded to Houston when the principal owner of the Texas club stepped in and killed the deal, the Associated Press learned today.

Houston General Manager Paul Richards and Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi reached agreement on a trade that would have brought Howard to Houston for third-base man Bob Aspromonte and pitcher Ken Johnson, The AP was told.

But the informant said Bob Smith, chairman of the board of directors of the Houston club, vetoed the trade because he didn't want to let Aspromonte go.

The minor leagues approved a pro-football-type draft of high school and college players at Wednesday's session of the winter baseball meetings. But trade rumors were still the principal conversation pieces.

It appeared there was still a fair chance the Los Angeles Angels would trade pitcher Bo Belinsky to the Philadelphia Phillies. But no one seemed to know which Philadelphia player or players might be involved.

The proposed draft of players with no professional experience was approved unanimously by the minor leagues and was to be considered today in separate meetings of the American and National leagues. It was expected to win approval.

Under the plan, there would be three drafts each year. The first two, in January and June, would involve college players and high school graduates not planning to attend college. The third would probably be held in August and would involve only American Legion and sandlot players.

Each major league club would be permitted to pick one player at each draft. Selections would be made in inverse order of the clubs' standings.

Should a player refuse to sign with the club that drafted him, he would become subject to selection again at a special draft session held prior to the next regular draft. He might then be picked by a club other than the one that drafted him originally.

One object of the draft is to put a brake on high bonuses. If adopted, the plan would become effective in January.

All Teams in SWC Post Wins Except Porkers

Norman Reuther scored 20 points Wednesday night to lead Texas Tech to a 114-70 victory over McMurry as the Southwest Conference basketball favorites piled up their second highest total in history.

Harold Denny and Dub Malaise, Tech's two all-conference players, accounted for 18 and 16 points, respectively.

Rice, the only conference team yet to see action, opens the season tonight against Vanderbilt at Nashville.

All the Southwest Conference teams were victorious in opening games except Arkansas and Texas A&M. They both lost by margins under 10 points. Conference teams have outscored foes so far 634 to 528.

Eight of the nine Red Raiders in action against McMurry scored better than 10 points. McMurry leaders were Preston Vice with 15 and Lloyd Mitchell with 11.

Tech led 58-32 at halftime. The highest Tech score was 117 against Texas Western in 1956.

The Raiders shot 43 per cent from the floor, McMurry 32 per cent.

Other action tonight finds Texas A&M going against Mississippi Southern at Hattiesburg and Southern Methodist against Georgia Tech at Atlanta.

Arnie's Army Can Now Relax Again

KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — Arnie's Army can relax — the general is going to start taking it easier.

"I'm through knocking my brains out — next year I'll cut my tournament schedule almost in half," Arnold Palmer said today, before teeing off in the Canada Cup International Matches — his 30th tournament of the year.

"For 10 years I've been playing in 25 or more tournaments every season. It's too much. I love golf. I don't want to get to the point that it is no longer fun but drudgery.

"Next year I'll limit myself to about 15 tournaments — picking them — and that'll be my diet from now on. I'm getting too old and tired to try to keep up with these young bucks week-in and week-out."

Palmer played in 26 PGA tour tournaments, visited Australia and Japan and competed in the World Match Play Championship in England. Besides this,

Thinks Olympic Athletes Must Not Let Down

By RONNIE THOMPSON
HOUSTON (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union feels the United States shouldn't follow its old habit of letting down in international competition after the Olympic Games but should work even harder, an AAU spokesman says.

Already much of the business at the annual AAU meeting here has been directed toward that goal. For one thing, the AAU has agreed on a 1965 triangular track meet with Poland, West Germany and the United States.

Don Hull, AAU executive director, said following a meeting of the foreign-relations committee Wednesday that the plan is for 1965 to be "the largest and best ever for international competition the year after the Olympic Games."

The United States, he said, has a habit of letting down after the Games and then scrambling back the year before the next Olympics.

"This doesn't lend to keeping the United States on top," he added.

Hull said the AAU tentatively plans to match the men's and women's national champions and runners-up from Poland, West Germany and the United States in a July 10-11 meet in Los Angeles. It will be a tune-up for the dual meet between the United States and Russia in Moscow later that month.

Meanwhile, the squabble over control of open amateur athletics in the United States between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the AAU was at a standstill today.

Each side agreed to meet Dec. 16 in Chicago, but only on its terms. Neither gave any sign of giving in to the other; so most officials saw little likelihood the meeting would be held.

Hull said there should be a congressional investigation of the "NCAA's attack and boycott of the AAU to see if there is a valid reason."

Nicklaus and Palmer Take on Everyone

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
KAANAPALI, MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — It was the defending champion United States, with Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, against the world today with the start of the prestige-packed Canada Cup golf matches.

Two-man teams representing 32 nations, plus twosomes from Hawaii and Puerto Rico, were set to tee off over the lush green acres of the Itoyal Kaaanapali Golf Course, one that measures 7,215 yards, with par 36-38-72.

There will be 18 holes each day, concluding Sunday.

The Canada Cup, put into play first in 1953 as an emblem of international good will through the medium of golf, is the big prize. It is determined by the total scores of the two players.

The companion award is the International Trophy which goes to the low medalist.

Palmer and Nicklaus won the Canada Cup last year in Paris, and while Palmer has yet to capture the International Trophy, he sounded a warning Wednesday.

Arnie, with an abbreviated version of his famed army at his heels, broke the course record in the pro-amateur prelude with a seven-under-par 31-34-65.

Best-ball low-score honors, 62, went to Palmer and his amateur partner, Howard Clark of New York, president of the International Golf Association.

Bob Pettit's back in the St. Louis Hawks' line-up and don't the Los Angeles Lakers know it. Pettit, who has scored more points than any man in National Basketball Association history, missed five games with a stomach muscle tear but was back for the Hawks' game Wednesday night against Western Division-leading Los Angeles.

His 23 points paced a 105-102 victory which shaved the Lakers' margin to 2½ games over the Hawks. Elsewhere, Boston ripped New York 116-91, Detroit downed Cincinnati 125-115 and Baltimore whipped San Francisco 120-114.

Pettit, playing his first game in 10 days, sank a basket and two foul shots in the last two minutes as the Hawks held off the Lakers. Elgin Baylor's 35 points led the losers and Richie Guerin hit 22 for St. Louis.

Washington Finally Got Team to Jell

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Washington stumbled and tumbled to four defeats to open the National Football League season, many Redskins fans decided Coach Bill McPeak had been swindled — when he swapped quarterbacks with Philadelphia.

Sonny Jurgensen couldn't find his receivers. And when he did, they often dropped the ball. He didn't connect for a touchdown until the third game, only twice in the first four.

Today, there has been a surprising turnaround. McPeak now is regarded as a hero for obtaining the 30-year-old former Duke University quarterback, the Associated Press Player of the Week Wednesday.

He won the honor for his performance Sunday when he threw four touchdown passes and completed 24 of 43 for 319 yards in a 36-1 victory over New York.

He moved into a tie with Green Bay's Bart Starr for the lead among NFL passers.

Asked about Jurgensen's slow start, McPeak pointed out that he missed five weeks of pre-season practice with a knee injury and saw extensive action only in the final exhibition game.

In 84 NFL games this year, there have been only eight where quarterbacks passed for more than 300 yards. Jurgensen has done it three times — against Philadelphia, Chicago and New York.

Griffith Has Another Fat British Purse

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Welterweight champion Emile Griffith heads for New York today with another easy victory over a Briton, another fat purse and a minor gripe over officiating.

The 26-year-old New Yorker floored Dave Charnley three times in stopping the British lightweight champion in 1:56 of the ninth round of a non-title 10-rounder at Wembley's indoor stadium.

Griffith, a native of the Virgin Islands, completely outclassed his lighter, 29-year-old opponent.

For his efforts — which were booed at times by the crowd of about 8,000 — Griffith collected about $20,000. Only last Sept. 22 he earned $56,000 in the same arena for soundly durburing Welshman Brian Curvis in a 15-round title defense.

The husky, hard-hitting world champion dropped the left-handed Briton twice in the third round — for a count of eight and a no-count at the bell — and for nine with a holing left hook to the jaw in the ninth round.

When Charnley, bleeding from cuts under both eyes, staggered to his feet after the third knockdown, referee Frank Wilson ended the slaughter.

Griffith had won seven of the eight completed rounds on The Associated Press' scorecard.

Griffith was warned several times for hitting low and butting with his head. Charnley also was warned. The crowd booed every time Griffith was warned.

"I'm going to complain to the British Boxing Board of Control," said Gil Clancy, Griffith's co-manager. "I was so worried that Emile might get disqualified that I told him not to hit Charnley lower than his chin."

"I'm hurt about the booing," said Griffith. "I wanted to please the fans. I got scared to throw punches because everything I did seemed to be wrong in the eyes of the referee."

a seventh victory from such nations as Spain, South Africa, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, to list a few.

Butkus Going to Bears, AFL Signs Elkins

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Butkus, one of the prime targets in the multi-million-dollar pro football war, will sign with the Chicago Bears today and end several days of intrigue in which the New York Jets tried to lure him into the rival American League on a lateral from Denver.

While the National League won the struggle for Butkus' services, the American League pulled even in signing competitive first round draft choices when the Houston Oilers signed the league's No. 1 selection — Baylor pass-catching whiz Larry Elkins.

Butkus' decision to join the Bears — a major score for the National League in the battle for big names — came almost simultaneously Wednesday with the revelation that Denver had traded its rights to the standout Illinois linebacker.

At his home in Champaign, Ill., Butkus told The Associated Press, "Yes, I definitely have decided to play for the Chicago Bears and definitely will sign with them."

In Denver, Broncos President Cal Kunz said Butkus wanted to play in a big city "so Denver gave its rights to him to the New York Jets. I can't say anything right now about our deal with New York."

Butkus disclaimed any knowledge of the transaction. "I really don't know anything about that," he said. "I have not talked with anyone from the Jets."

Butkus was a first-round selection of the Bears while the Broncos, who had traded away their No. 1 pick in the AFL draft, made him their first pick on the second round.

The Oilers, signing their No. 1 draft choice for the fifth time in six years, whipped the NFL's Green Bay Packers for Elkins' services while reuniting last year's sensational Don Trull to Elkins' passing combination.

Trull, now a rookie with the Oilers, was the Baylor quarterback in 1963. Besides Trull there were other lures for Elkins. According to the Houston Post, he signed a contract calling for a $30,000 bonus and three years at $30,000 a year — a $125,000 package.

Elkins' signing gave the AFL a 2-2 split with the NFL in the signing of players both leagues drafted on the first round.

Wonder If Hull Can Hit 60 Goals?

NEW YORK (AP) — Can Bobby Hull hit 60 goals? The Chicago Black Hawks' scoring star just laughed when the question was put to him Wednesday night after the Hawks had played a 3-3 tie with the New York Rangers.

Maurice Richard, who shares the one-season NHL scoring mark of 50 goals with Hull and Bernie Geoffrion, said Wednesday that the Chicago star has the speed, strength and scoring ability to hit 60. Hull scored 17 goals in Chicago's first 18 games.

The Rangers, victims of four Hull goals in their first two meetings with the Hawks, seemed determined not to surrender that 18th goal. New York Coach Red Sullivan assigned Bob Nevin and Donnie Marshall to shadow the hefty Hawk and they did a commendable job.

"He's a tough man to cover," said Marshall. "You can't take your eyes off him for a second. He'll shoot from the blue line and be on the net every time. There aren't many you have to worry about from out there."

The tie moved the Rangers into a third-place tie with the Montreal and kept them three points up on the fifth-place Hawks.

No other games were scheduled.

Many Miners Re-settled in Montana

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — This called richest hill on earth is providing a richer life for hundreds of miners who saw work in the coal fields of the Appalachian country play out in the past decade.

From Alabama, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and other states they have come to work in Butte's copper mines. Never before, said a Labor Department spokesman, have workers been recruited on such a large scale to move elsewhere for jobs.

About 450 are at work in underground mines of the Anaconda Co., a firm whose vast program to develop the mines had been beset by a shortage of skilled workers.

Unable to get all the help it needed, the company, along with state and federal employment agencies, turned to the Appalachian country where shut-down coal mines spurred unemployment.

For the workers and the company the project has turned out well.

"They're good. They're important to us and we need them," said a spokesman for Anaconda.

It means a steady paycheck for the workers.

"I jumped at the chance to work in Montana," said Lawrence Persinger, 42 of Crab Orchard, W. Va. "The idea of permanent work interests me more than anything else. We didn't have year-round employment in West Virginia."

Persinger began work as a shaftman last February and later brought his wife and three boys to Butte. "My boys like it swell. They've already done their share of hunting and fishing in the surrounding mountains," he said. Persinger had worked in coal mines for 11 years.

Robert Farrell of Grundy, Va., was a foreman in a coal mine for 19 years prior to 1959. He came to Butte in January 1963 and now is a shift boss. He says he likes the job and the people and above all is back at work on the craft he knows.

After training to adapt to copper mining, the men go to work for wages averaging $21.84 daily.

Some of these who made the westward trek got help from the company in the form of interest-free loans, low-priced housing and proper work clothing.

The men had to pass physical examinations in their home area, have at least three years of mining experience and be 21-45 years old. All made the move at their own expense.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Are movies going to pieces?" asks an article in the Atlantic Monthly by Pauline Kael, who proceeds to answer, "yes."

Miss Kael, who is billed as an author, lecturer and authority on films, criticizes the growing lack of logic in movies. She cites the swift and unexplained ending of "Bridge on the River Kwai"; the garbled plot of "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?"; her utter confusion of "55 Days at Peking"; the sudden clairvoyance of Cleopatra in the film of that name; the puzzling story turns of "The Cardinal."

"Audiences used to have an almost rational passion for getting the story straight," writes the critic. "Although the movie might be banal or vulgar, they were rarely incoherent. A movie had to tell some story that held together; a plot had to parse."

She concludes: "Movies are going to pieces; they are disintegrating, and the something called cinema is not movies raised to an art but rather movies diminished, movies that look 'artistic.' Movies are being stripped of all the 'nonessentials' — that is to say, facts, action, details, stories, places, everything that makes them entertaining and joyful."

She's right, you know. The one thing that impresses a reviewer who sees the major output of the studios is the sloppiness of the product. Today's films are filled with incongruities, pointless jokes, technical errors, and anachronisms that any bright 11th-grade English student could correct in the script.

Why is this so? The answer seems to lie in the abdication of authority by the major studios. Bosses like Louis B. Mayer and Harry Cohn were despotic and crude, but they did control things. They and their deputies insisted that a script be finished before shooting started, that the story should be understandable and the casting apt, and that the schedule proceed in a businesslike manner.

"Today, people in Hollywood are more interested in making deals than in making movies," said a top executive.

The wheeler-dealers have moved into the industry, setting up packages to find a buyer, then moving on to the next deal. The film makers are left to their own devices, with no steady hand to guide them.

The influence of European film makers has been chaotic. Working on scant budgets, Italian and French directors have been able to indulge their own whimsies. The results are often incomprehensible to the general public, but hailed by highbrow critics. Hungry for praise, American directors have sought to emulate the Europeans, with

NEW YORK (AP) — Fads or trends, as they are called in television — infect public affairs programs as they do entertainment programs.

A few seasons back, the vogue was for the controversial, even daring, approach often accompanied by a strongly editorial point of view. Those were the days when NBC's "white paper" series tackled everything from Soviet leadership to public welfare philosophies and when "CBS Reports" worked with hidden cameras to expose a Boston bookmaking establishment.

Lately, it seems, the networks are all off on an armchair tour-

Wednesday night CBS in a news department production called "Five Faces of Tokyo," gave us an hour trip around the Japanese city.

It was on the whole an interesting visit but the program was probably one of those undertakings that looked a lot better in blueprint than on our television screens.

The idea was to have five Tokyo residents from different walks of life and social classes show us their city from their viewpoints.

If the program had stuck with any one of these for the hour, it would have been much more interesting and enlightening.

Five people were too many and much of the time it was hard to know whose eyes we were looking through.

Producers of NBC's "Mr. Novak" will start immediately hunting for a replacement or Dean Jagger, forced to quit the show because of a return of an ulcer condition. Jagger co-starred as a high school principal, Mr. Vane, while James Franciscus, in the title role, plays a young English teacher.

HOW TO WELCOME CHRISTMAS IN THE DOOR

Take a walk out your front door and see what your guests will see. Do you like it? Will your guests?

In the time left before holiday visitors begin to come through that doorway, you can perform a few simple tricks that will welcome them, and Christmas, in the door with a flourish.

Consider how the doorway, for instance, would look after a quick re-painting job. After the paint dries, you can frame the door with evergreens. For large wreaths, consider the grace of white pine, or a blackish fir that doesn't shed. For flat wreaths, English ivy is perfect. If you're undecided as to what color paint will flatter your house best, why not try a touch of history this year? A door that wears the new Colonial touch, offered by Pittsburgh Paints, recalls the gaiety of Christmases celebrated two hundred years ago, and more.

Do you have a picture window? Try placing a candle, a wreath or a spray of evergreens in it — remembering that too much of any of these can spoil the effect. The children might like to try a stained glass effect with vegetable colorings, artificial snow, even phosphorescent materials that will glow in the dark!

Naturally, welcoming guests in the door comes easier with a welcome mat. It helps make them feel invited, and serves also to keep dripping snow and mud from boots off your just-polished floor.

A branch or two of evergreen on the hall table makes the foyer scene more cozy; try spraying the boughs with enamels that dry in minutes: Pittsburgh Paints' pale gold, silver and copper enamels are especially effective here. In addition, there are the traditional Christmas hues of white, red and green.

A hint to complete the welcome you extend: extend the hallway into the living room through the use of a gleaming plate glass mirror. Bunches of holly tied with bright red ribbon, and boughs sprayed with white and silver, make the mirror a harmonious center of attention; it reflects the room's beauty into the hall, and makes the house seem like one colorful Christmas welcome.

Feels Sorry for Underpaid Legislators

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — In all the talk about ending poverty, building the "Great Society" and so on, one element of the population is being overlooked. These forgotten people — who really need succor — are our state legislators.

Squalid is the only word to describe the conditions they subsist in. Miserable pay. Sometimes no office to work in. A man has to read his mail standing up in a corridor. And he can't even think, he's so busy warding off the hordes of lobbyists that beset him.

Take New Hampshire. This state has the third-largest parliament in the English-speaking world — 424 members. England's Parliament is the biggest and the U.S. Congress second.

Do you know what the New Hampshire legislators are paid? The laughable sum of $100 a year. It is true they don't work anywhere near full time on the job, but you can easily consume $100 in cigars in smoke-filled rooms these days.

Or take Connecticut. Some of the solons there, when called upon to transact the state's business, have applied for and got unemployment compensation. The legislators' pay in Connecticut was, until two years ago, $300 a year, but now has been raised to $2,500 for a two-year term.

This subject is to the forefront now because of a tremendous, fundamental-revolution going on in American politics. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled, with finality, that state legislatures, mostly controlled up to now by rural elements, must be apportioned according to population — "one man, one vote."

The hopes of the backers of this great change are that the states now will resume the role the Founding Fathers envisioned for them — a powerful role in which they would solve their own problems without running to the federal government for help. Such problems as mass transportation in the cities, remedies for urban blight, for poor educational systems, and so on.

The Johnson administration is thinking of turning over to the states billions of dollars in federal taxes. But what will happen to this money in the states where legislatures, meeting for only short terms, have no adequate committee systems or staffs to plan programs, no really sure-fire safeguards against outright thievery?

As Charles S. Rhyne, former president of the American Bar Association, sees it, the times demand a thorough-going reform of state legislatures. Rhyne argued for the city folks and the suburbanites in the historic, break-through Supreme Court case which resulted in the "one-man, one-vote" ruling.

Rhyne says the states must offer salaries adequate to attract good people to the legislatures, and must give them modern tools to work with.

Men of character are needed, he believes, to withstand the importunities of special interests. Rhyne made a study of Connecticut, not because it's the

Homecoming Supper Easy and Carefree with Canned Beans

The big weekend is approaching. The old fraternity spirit has begun to rise again. "If you're planning to come up for the homecoming game, stay with us," reads your invitation.

There's something special about the gaiety of seeing old school friends, the excitement of the big game. You can add to the festivities with a hearty "after the game" supper. Plan it with care, and plan to stay out of the kitchen. It's easy when you've included a special casserole of beans—canned pork & beans, with tomato sauce to be exact.

In this Big Game Bean Pot the beans are joined by apples and prunes, spiced with cinnamon, cloves, grated lemon rind, and given snap with sliced celery and chopped onion. Just mix, top with butter-brushed apple rings, and pop into the oven—with that canned ham and some cornbread (made from a mix). While the

1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1 cup chopped apple
1 cup chopped prunes
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 thick slice apple

In saucepan, cook celery, onion, cinnamon, and cloves in butter until celery is tender. Stir in beans, apples, prunes, and lemon rind. Pour into 1 1/2 quart casserole. Arrange apple slices in circle on top of beans. Brush with butter. Bake at 350°F. for 30 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

"DEAR ABBY"

HE'S DISTRACTED!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Mine is a small problem compared to others, but it is still a problem. I play in the symphony orchestra, and a woman who has a season ticket sits in the front row at every performance. She is very careless about her position, Abby. The way she sits, I mean. This is very embarrassing to some of our orchestra personnel, and especially disconcerting during a concert. What can be done. I think someone ought to tell her. My wife says I should mind my own business. I'd like your opinion.

WOOD WIND
Dear Wood Wind: She may be a patron, so keep still. Or imagine she's a cello player without her cello. Or better yet, keep your eyes on the music. P. S. Your wood wind is sighing.

Dear Abby: Re your advice to "EMBARRASSED," the woman who ditched the nude statues when she saw the preacher coming up the road: I don't agree with you. If the woman's nation's horrible example, but because he was due to make a speech in Hartford.

son is an Art major, and got his sculpture in Italy, they might well be works of art rather than pornography. Was "Embarrassed" born in a corset? And did the preacher come in to this world fully clothed. Some bare facts are cleaner than nasty uncluttered in ignorance.

Art For Art's Sake
In San Francisco

Dear Abby: The letter from the Art major's mother in Blytheville, Arkansas reminded me of this incident: While touring Italy, many years ago, I bought a small, but splendid replica of Michelangelo's David. My wife's mother lived with us at the time. The poor inhibited little soul was terribly embarrassed at the sight of this magnificent, young, unadorned male body, so she KNIT him a "dress." And our David wore that knit dress for as long as my mother-in-law lived.

CHESTNUT HILL

Dear Abby: I met a nice gentleman through a friend and we have had many enjoyable dates. (I am over 40 and he is about 50.) Last night, when he brought me home from the theatre, he said: "I hope that you will have a new hair style the next time I see you." I was hurt and replied, "I don't tell YOU how to wear YOUR hair, do I?" My hair is always neat, Abby, but I don't go in for the latest hair

New Initials Bring Fuss in NATO

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new set of initials — MLF — is kicking up a controversy in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

MLF stands for multilateral force. It is a new concept in the handling of nuclear weapons, developed and pushed by the United States. Essentially, it is a way of permitting the United States' allies partial participation in the control of the nuclear deterrent.

To help understand what the fight is all about, here are some basic questions and answers about MLF.

Q. What is MLF?
A. It is a proposal for a separate force of surface ships, such as freighters, to be equipped with Polaris missiles with nuclear tips. The crews would be an international mixture from the participating nations. There would be 25 ships. A destroyer, the USS Ricketts, has been manned by a mixed crew recently to demonstrate how this can be done.

Q. Who would control them?
A. There would be an MLF commander, separate from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command, which would retain its own forces. But in time of war, MLF would be an arm of NATO. Control of the weapons would be multinational, rather than in the hands of any one country. The United States alone could not decide to use them. Neither could any other one country.

Q. Why was this idea developed?
A. Many of the Allies have long wanted greater participation in the nuclear deterrent styles. I think he was wrong to comment about my hair don't you? He is the most eligible bachelor in town, but if he is capable of such heinous remark I wonder if I should tolerate it? I respect your opinion. What should I do?

HURT
Dear Hurt: Hie thee to the best beauty parlor in town and get a new hair style. Your friend was blunt, to be sure, but if you are wise (and interested in him) you'll accept his remark as constructive criticism and set about to remedy the situation. You could wind up thanking him.

Cuban Exiles Fight Rebels in Congo

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — About 300 Cuban exiles are fighting Peking-backed rebels in the Congo, informed sources say. "They might be called mercenaries since they receive pay for their services, but actually they are training for forthcoming warfare (against Fidel Castro) in Cuba," said an exile. The Cuban brigade in the Congo, the source said, includes 220 infantrymen and 70 aviation men, including 45 pilots.

Canada Fears Being a U.S. Satellite

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following fourth of five articles, details common Canadian complaints about U.S. influence.

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians are determined not to let their country become a U.S. satellite — or even to have the appearance of being one. They have demonstrated their political independence by trading with Cuba and Red China, and they are moving toward the eventual recognition of the Peking government. But they are tied closely to the United States both through the North American defense system and through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Since last year, they have had American-owned nuclear warheads at two Canadian missile bases. For this reason, they are extremely sensitive to U.S. foreign policy decisions. On economic matters, Canadian nationalists find it much more difficult to assert their independence. The two countries do more business with each other than with anybody else.

About 60 per cent of all Canadian exports go to the United States, and about two-thirds of all Canadian imports are from the United States.

One of the common complaints of Canadians is that Americans own so much of their country that Canada is no longer master of its own house. There have been efforts by both main political parties to discourage foreign investments, but the pressure of provincial governments and of business was so great that the proposed measures were dropped.

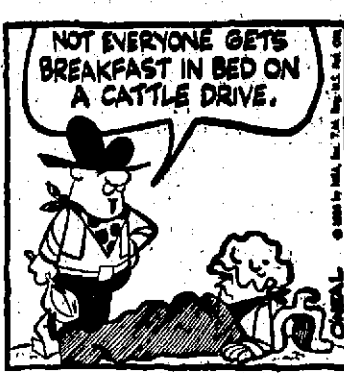

At present, U.S. investments are increasing. Nonresidents — mostly Americans — control 70 per cent of the investments in Canadian petroleum and natural gas, 59 per cent in mining and smelting, and 60 per cent in manufacturing. This means that major decisions often are made by people who live outside Canada. It also means that huge sums of money flow abroad in interest and dividends. Foreign control of Canadian economy worries Canadians and hurts their pride. They are afraid, for example, that in the event of a business slump, U.S. owners might close their Canadian subsidiaries and cause large-scale unemployment, while keeping their U.S. plants in operation. They also resent the application of U.S. laws, such as those restricting exports to Cuba and Red China, to Canada and subsidiaries.

Christmas week is traditionally a time for hospitality—whether it be a tree-trimming party or just a get-together for the pure joy of the season. Whatever the occasion, hospitality should be homey—and nothing is more so than coffee and pie. A little cordial, a liqueur, or some other spirit will, of course, add greatly to that holiday elegance.

Luxury is the taste in the following recipe for pecan pie—richness of the season enhanced by a whisper of Bourbon or Rum. The pecans may be left whole, if desired, but using them sliced makes neater serving later. The pie is a good freezer—so make it early and store it away before the season's activities and excitement take too much time. Happy Holidays!

SPECIAL PECAN PIE
3 tablespoons Bourbon or Rum
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups thinly sliced pecans, (two 3-oz. cans)
1 unbaked pastry shell, 9 inches
3 eggs
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup dark corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla

Line 9-inch pie plate with pastry, flute edge and set aside. Beat eggs well. Stir in remaining ingredients. Pour mixture into unbaked pie shell. Bake in hot oven (400°) about 35 minutes, or until crust is browned and filling is slightly puffy. Cool, on rack, to room temperature before serving. (Filling will flatten a bit and become firm on cooling. If prepared long in advance, wrap in foil and freeze after cooling. When needed, bring out of freezer and let thaw to room temperature before serving.) Yield—8 servings.

TOPPING (optional, but oh so good!)
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
Sugar to taste
1/2 teaspoon aromatic bitters (about 4 good dashes)
Blend whipped cream, sugar and bitters together. Give a good dollop to each wedge of pie. Enuf said.

Fog Shrouds U.S. Plans in Viet Nam

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fog never lifted.

As the American-backed war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam steadily deteriorated there was a dense fog over this country's plans, if any, for saving the chaotic situation.

Then the U.S. ambassador to Saigon, Maxwell D. Taylor, came home to talk to President Johnson. After they met Tuesday the White House issued a statement which indicated neither a solution nor a new idea.

This doesn't mean the two men didn't reach a decision on how to save Viet Nam and perhaps all Southeast Asia from communism. But they were very careful in the vaguely worded statement not to say so.

By their very vagueness they left themselves enormous room for a far tougher American policy — if that's what they have in mind — but this becomes understandable only if you can remember the background.

The White House statement said: "The President reaffirmed the basic U.S. policy of providing all possible and useful assistance to the South Vietnamese people and government in their struggle to defeat the externally supported insurgency and aggression being conducted against them."

"It was noted that this policy accords with the terms of the joint congressional resolution of Aug. 10, 1964, which remains in full force and effect."

When North Vietnamese PT boats attacked two U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin last August, Johnson promptly ordered American planes to retaliate by bombing North Vietnamese coastal bases, patrol boats and oil installations. That was Aug. 4.

This attack spread over five hours and 100 miles of coast. The next day Johnson asked Congress to give him advance approval for any steps he thought necessary in the Southeast Asia predicament. Congress obliged.

It approved a resolution authorizing Johnson to "take all necessary steps, including use of the armed forces," to assist South Viet Nam or any other country under the protection of the Southeast Asia collective defense treaty which asked for help in defense of its freedom.

Although Johnson said "the United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war," this resolution was a green light. The fact that he referred to it Tuesday could mean he now intends far more drastic action than anything this country has attempted yet.

But, if so, it almost certainly means widening the war, which is what Johnson said in August he didn't intend to do. There was no hint of this in Tuesday's statement but then, of course, it might be poor strategy to telegraph a punch to the Communists ahead of time.

Yet, all through 1964 Johnson

U.S. Crime Up 13 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime in the United States increased 13 per cent in the first nine months of 1964 compared to the first nine months of last year, the FBI said today.

The increase ranged from 20 per cent in the South to 12 per cent in the north-central states. The Northeastern states reported a 14 per cent increase and the Western states 13 per cent.

Defectors Tied in With Soviet Police

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two European-born U.S. soldiers who defected to the Soviet Union more than four years ago were disclosed today to have had prior connections with the Soviet secret police.

The two, both World War II displaced persons, were stationed in West Germany with U.S. Army units when they crossed over to the Russians separately in the summer of 1960. Their defection and identification prior connection with the ties were disclosed then, but not Soviet secret police.

One was Vladimir Sloboda, a native of the Ukraine, who is now 37. The other was Joseph Dutkanicz, a native of Poland who died a year ago today at the age of 37.

Their defection was mentioned two months ago in the Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In discussing Soviet defection procedures — Lee Harvey Oswald has given the impression of a man reluctant to do anything different from what has been done in the past and what has been done was limited even though the war crumbled day by day.

Johnson's hesitancy about broadening the war is understandable, although hesitancy may lose it. If, for instance, North Viet Nam were bombed, Red China might come to its aid, thus turning a small war into an American-Chinese war.

Meanwhile, it's not just the Red guerrillas who are frustrating the American efforts so far. The South Vietnamese themselves are doing it, slowly sinking their country into chaos with their own instability and riots against their government.

The White House statement — that "the President reaffirmed the basic U.S. policy of providing all possible and useful assistance to the South Vietnamese people" — is a repetition of what he said last Jan. 1.

He promised the Vietnamese that American forces and materiel — "as needed" — would be kept in South Viet Nam to help them in "achieving victory."

At other times in 1964 he promised this country "would stand firm" in Viet Nam and that withdrawal was "strategically unwise and morally unthinkable." At the same time he said enlargement of the war would be "reckless."

wald, Kennedy's assassin, had defected to the Soviet Union after leaving the U.S. Marine Corps — the commission report quoted the Central Intelligence Agency:

"Two defectors from U.S. Army intelligence units in West Germany appeared to have been given citizenship immediately, but both had prior KGB (Russian secret police) connections and fled as a result of Army security checks."

The CIA did not identify the two defectors in the Warren report.

The Associated Press asked the Army for their names and records. Now, two months later, the Army — after consulting with the CIA — reports the defectors referred to by the CIA and the two who crossed over in the summer of 1960 are the same.

Sloboda has made broadcasts denouncing the United States and "has also written articles for the Soviet press which follow the Soviet propaganda line," the Army said. He now lives in Lvov, a former Polish city now part of the Soviet Union.

Dutkanicz worked in a television factory before he died in Lvov, the Army said.

After their defection, the Russians quoted Sloboda and Dutkanicz as saying they acted partly out of revulsion against U2 plane flights over the Soviet Union. This was shortly after Francis Gary Powers was shot down over the Soviet Union while on a U2 flight.

The Army supplied no details on how, where or when the two men had had connections with the Soviet secret police.

Its summary, furnished to The Associated Press, said Sloboda was born in Podkamen in the Ukraine and during World War II was sent to Germany as a forced laborer. After the war he spent time in a displaced persons camp in Germany, emigrated to England, and then returned to Germany where he enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1953.

The Army summary said Dutkanicz was a native of Gorlice

Statesmen Give Problems to Computers

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Founding Fathers, especially Thomas Jefferson, would be amazed; in fact, they probably would be shuddering.

Jefferson, an exemplar of 18th century enlightenment, was a man who believed human reason, if rightfully applied, could solve great social and political problems.

What would he find today? Statesmen beginning to abdicate reason's throne, beginning to turn their problems over to robots to computers.

The trend, if it can be called one, was highlighted in Connecticut the other day. There the members of the state legislature were faced with what might seem a relatively simple problem, though one of immense importance.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled state legislative districts must be equal in population so far as practicable. This requires much revamping of most state legislatures.

In Connecticut, the Democrats control one house and the Republicans the other. They were unable to sit down, reason together and come up with a solution.

The deadlock got so bad the Nov. 3 election for the legislature was canceled. The old assembly is holding over.

A three-judge federal court, which has taken a great interest in the subject, finally appointed a special master to come up with a reapportionment plan in case the legislature continues to fail.

Who is the special master? Morris S. Davis, director of the Yale University Computer Center. His robots are green on the problem of reapportionment; they have been laboring hitherto on such subjects as linguistics and astronomy. But Davis expresses confidence they will meet this new challenge.

While Jefferson probably would shake his head over the failure of men to reason together, he would be vastly interested in computers. He was a great gadgeteer himself, an inventor.

He would recognize at once that computers are only a sort of extension of the human brain. They cannot do anything the brain cannot do, only they can do it faster. Their output is only as good as the material fed into their maw.

Computer men have an adage: "Garbage in, garbage out."

Special master Davis does not intend to feed any garbage in. "We hope," he said, "that we will be able to deliver an objective, nonpartisan system by approaching the problem as one of mathematics, rather than politics."

Speaking about New York, an official of the National Municipal League said: "There is no reason why in the state of New York a system of compact, contiguous districts, well balanced in population, cannot be set up within even a week's time."

"All it needs is people with a thorough knowledge of the process, technical help, computers and a conscience."

Conscience is, of course, exactly what computers lack; they have no emotions, no sense of compassion.

HOW TO ROAST TURKEY LIKE A PRO

You may have talked turkey, danced the turkey trot, sung "Turkey in the Straw"—but do you know how to prepare roast turkey like a pro?

According to the experts, correct roasting is slow cooking by dry heat on a rack in an open pan. It requires no water, little basting, no cover and no searing. Low temperatures assure better flavor and appearance, less shrinkage and less loss of juices. A shallow open pan allows for the heat to circulate around the bird, roasting it evenly.

For best results, follow these simple steps recommended by the makers of Wild Turkey Bourbon:

1. Preheat oven to 325° F. (slow).
2. Rinse bird with cold water, drain and pat dry. Rub cavity of bird lightly with salt, if desired.
3. Insert stuffing, if used, just before the turkey goes in the oven for roasting. Push drumsticks under band of skin at tail, if present; or tie them to tail.
4. Place turkey on rack in shallow roasting pan, breast side up.

Brush skin with fat. If a roast meat thermometer is to be used, insert it so that the bulb is in the center of the inside thigh muscle or in the thickest part of the breast meat.

5. Place in preheated oven. If desired, baste or brush occasionally with pan drippings — especially any dry areas. When turkey is two-thirds done, cut cord of band of skin at drumsticks.

6. When the meat thermometer registers approximately 185° F., the turkey should be done. A bird weighing between 6 to 8 lbs. will take about 2 to 2 1/2 hours before it registers that temperature. An 8 to 12 lb. turkey will have to be kept in the oven anywhere from 2 1/2 to 3 hours, while a bird of from 12 to 20 lbs. will need 3 to 4 1/2 hours for completion.

If you're wondering what to serve your guests along with the main dish to enhance their dinner, you might bear in mind the fact that Wild Turkey Bourbon in glasses is often seen beside roast turkey on a platter. In fact, that's a good way to serve roast turkey like a pro.

GOP Summit Meet Planned by Goldwater

EDITOR'S NOTE — In this exclusive AP interview, Sen. Barry Goldwater tells of plans for a GOP summit meeting and gives his views on demands by some Republicans that the party chairman be replaced. Goldwater says he does not plan to grant additional interviews or hold news conferences.

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said today he plans to meet soon with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard M. Nixon for a "general discussion" of the Republican party's future course.

The defeated GOP presidential nominee said in an interview on his return to Washington from Phoenix, Ariz., that he doesn't know where the summit conference discussion will lead. But he indicated he is willing to cooperate with the former president and the former vice president in trying to bring peace among the bickering factions of the Republican party.

Goldwater said the meeting originally had been scheduled for next Thursday at Eisenhower's office at Gettysburg, Pa., but had to be delayed because of Nixon's trip to Japan. He added, however, he hopes it can be fitted into the schedules of all three principals before his return to Arizona next week.

Goldwater made it clear he would encourage the formation of the kind of advisory council suggested by some GOP governors and other party leaders to bring all factions into the formation of future party policy.

"I tried to get Milton Eisenhower's group to continue its work," he said. "I thought they were making some headway."

Eisenhower, brother of the former president and head of Johns Hopkins University, is chairman of the Republican Critical Issues Council. The council, a panel of leading Republicans, issued GOP policy statements through special task forces during the recent presidential campaign.

Goldwater remained adamant in his opposition to the replacement of Republican National Chairman Dean Burch, his personal choice for the job after the San Francisco nominating convention.

"They are not going to throw Burch out," he said. "They don't have the votes."

This opposition by the presidential nominee to any replacement of the national chairman at this time was concurred in by congressional Republican leaders who think it is too early to take such drastic action.

Goldwater said he regards himself now as "a free man," able to speak out on issues of paramount interest to the nation. He indicated he no longer

Barroom Slaying Brings Sentence

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Gerard Willard Maxwell, 34, of Van Buren, Ark., drew a 25-year-to-life term Tuesday for a barroom gun slaying last January.

The victim was Lloyd Metrick, 26, of Clarfield, Utah.

Maxwell had pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Superior Court Judge E. R. Thurman told Maxwell he could expect a parole in about 10 years.

Maxwell indicated his criticism may center on President Johnson's course in the South Viet Nam hostilities.

"We're in war there and it's time that the American people found out just how deeply we are involved," he said. "I pointed that out in the campaign and I am going to speak out on it some more."

Asked when he intended to "speak out," the Arizona senator replied he will do so when his newspaper column is resumed in January. He suspended publication of this column when he became an announced candidate for the GOP presidential nomination early this year.

Goldwater, who has not met with reporters except for a brief news conference in Jamaica, said he is going over to the side of the writing men and does not intend to have additional news conferences or interviews.

The senator, bronzed from his Jamaica vacation and a subsequent rest at his Phoenix home, gave no indications that he was downcast by his landslide defeat by Johnson.

"They can't discount the fact that 27 million Americans voted for me," he said.

When his interviewer noted that the Republicans contended this did not represent wholly GOP conservative strength but included Republicans who did not necessarily agree with his views but opposed Johnson and his program, Goldwater replied cryptically:

"That's what they say. I think the conservatives are going to be heard from."

Republican governors, meeting in Denver this weekend, may come up with some recommendations for realigning the party organization. Burch has called a Jan. 21-22 meeting of the OIFNAL Committee in Chicago at which he plans to ask for a vote of confidence.

The newest demand for replacement of Burch came Tuesday from Charles Percy, defeated in his race for governor of Illinois. Percy, the 1960 GOP convention platform chairman, said "we must have a change in command at the national level."

Percy proposed setting up a national policy committee. He suggested that it be headed by Gov. Robert Smylie of Idaho, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky or Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio.

Senate Republican leaders showed no enthusiasm for Percy's suggestions.

Alexander Pope, noted English author, was called the "Wasp of Twickenham."

Julekake...

... means "Christmas bread" in Norway where the crown-topped loaves, filled with raisins and candied fruits are traditional. Translated into this convenient hot roll mix version, Julekake is a fine Christmas baking choice for the hostess with limited baking time. It's an all-purpose goodie, as tempting to offer with coffee in the evening as it is at breakfast or brunch-time.

Julekake: Sprinkle yeast from 1 package hot roll mix over 1/4 cup warm (not hot) water in large bowl; stir to dissolve. Add 1 unbroken egg, 1 tablespoon honey, 1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom and dry mix. Mix well. Let rise in warm place (85° to 90° F.) until light and doubled in size, 30 to 60 minutes.

Knead 1/2 cup raisins, 1/2 cup chopped pecans and 1 cup chopped candied fruit into dough on floured surface until smooth and satiny, 5 to 7 minutes. Divide in half. Shape into two round loaves and place in center of two well-greased 8-inch round cake pans. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Cut one inch deep into side of each loaf, about one inch up from the bottom of baking pan. Continue cutting around base of each loaf to make complete circle. Punch down the center of each loaf with hand. (This gives Julekake its typical shape.) Brush with slightly beaten egg. Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 30 to 60 minutes.

Bake at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes until deep golden brown. Remove from baking pans immediately.

Glaze while warm with mixture of 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar and 4 to 5 teaspoons milk. If desired, decorate with chopped nuts or candied fruit. Makes 2 Julekakes.

He went to a file cabinet and opened a drawer. He rifled through the cards speedily, then shook his head. "Nothing on Blaine. Let's try the other one."

We walked down to another bank of files and he pulled out a drawer. "Wright is here," he said after a moment, "but it won't help you much. We nailed him once on theft of forgery, but it was a long time ago. I don't suppose the address is even good. You'd better go with Lieutenant Pritchard."

"All right," I said. I followed him back to his office.

He looked at the work on his desk and sighed. "You want me to go out with you, Blake?"

"There's no point to it," I said.

"You've got enough work without playing Seeing Eye Dog for me. If I finally get Emery trapped and I need help to close in on him, I'll yell for help."

He grinned his appreciation. "Well, if there's anything you want, let me know. And keep in touch."

"I'll probably be in here every day."

I left. When I reached the street, I hailed a cab and told the driver to take me to the Detective Division.

For once I got a surprise. Lieutenant Pritchard was a tall, thin man with glasses, who looked more like a bookkeeper than a cop. He examined my credentials and handed them back to me. "What can I do for you, Inspector?"

"Mostly information at this time," I said. "I'd like to know something about Freddie Blaine and John Wright. The latter is also known as Tip Wright. Both of them did their last stretches in Sing and Sing."

He picked up the phone and dialed three numbers. "Freddie Blaine and Tip Wright," he said and hung up. He swiveled back to face me.

"What's your case, Inspector?" "A man named Richard Emery. From New York. He's done more than one stretch. Now we want him for theft, forgery, and murder."

"Sounds like he's trying to break the bank. All Federal crimes?"

"Yes. He's also guilty of stealing corporation checks in Chicago and then forging signatures on them and cashing them. But the Federal offenses predate that."

He nodded. "You think he's out to operate here?" "I think so. But it'll be a fast operation. He knows I'm after him and he probably won't allow himself more than a week here. But he managed to take at least 40 thousand in Chicago in the same period of time."

"A nice piece of change. What about the two local boys you're interested in?"

"I think he may try to use one or both of them to help him. And I do mean use. I think he pays off in small change and keeps the rest for himself."

The door opened and a patrolman came in with two folders. He put them on the lieutenant's desk and left. Pritchard opened the first folder and looked at it. Finally he glanced up.

"You can scratch Blaine," he said. "He's back in jail and has been for three weeks. He won't be out for about 11 months." He picked up the other folder. "Well, he's available." He thumbed through the pages while I waited. Finally, he closed it and looked at me.

"He might be ripe for something. He's been pulled in several times on suspicion, but we haven't pinned anything on him. And I don't think he's been doing so well. He might be ready for anything that has a buck in it."

He pulled over a pad and copied down the address. He thought for a minute, then scribbled something else. He tore the page from the pad and passed it to me. "There's a night club down on Broadway where he hangs out part of the time. It's called The Tomato. I wrote that down, too. It might be a good place to check."

"Lieutenant, you're a gem," I said, taking the paper.

"What do you think this Emery is going to do here?"

"Two things. He may try to steal money orders from a post office. We're alerting every office in the city. The other thing I think may happen is that he will break into offices, steal checkbooks and then write checks. That's the pattern so far."

"Without knowing where he'll strike," he said, "there isn't much I can do in advance. But I'll see that reports on such robberies are sent to my desk at once. Maybe we can do something about this case of yours."

"Thanks, Lieutenant," I said. "I'll keep in touch."

FRESH WINTER PEAR WEDGES MAKE GOOD CHEESE DIPPER

Wedges of fresh Western pears, perfect cheese dippers, are a refreshing change from traditionally heavy party foods. Choose from any of the three equally delightful varieties, Anjou, Bosc or Comice.

Fresh winter pears, though alike in appeal, are quite different in appearance. The Anjou is characteristically light green in color even when fully ripe and, as all pears, will yield to gentle pressure when ready for eating. The Bosc is recognized by its long tapering neck and russet color skin. The Comice pear is known as the "gift box pear". It is heart shaped and often has a reddish blush on its greenish yellow skin.

All varieties of fresh Western pears offer elegant eating when baked, broiled or munched out of hand. Next time you want an exciting appetizer, snack or dessert, serve pears with Dips.

Pears With Dips

Chill Anjou, Bosc or Comice pears. Slice and arrange on tray around bowl of cheese dips. Let each snack-snitcher help himself by dipping pear slices into dips.

Triple Cheese Dip:
8 oz. cream cheese 1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 cup cream style cottage cheese 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 oz. bleu cheese
Combine ingredients and chill to blend flavors. Garnish with paprika.

Devilish Ham Dip:
8 oz. cream cheese
1 (4 1/2 oz.) can deviled ham
1/4 cup finely chopped chutney
Combine ingredients and chill. Garnish with parsley.

Mayors Will Make Pitch for More Cash

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Municipal League, armed with a pledge of support from Gov. Orval E. Faubus, will make the big pitch in the 1965 legislature for a state-oriented solution to financing problems of the cities.

As Mayor Clyde Andrews of Marianna, the league president, told the Legislative Council last week, the cities have nowhere else to turn.

In three straight general elections, voters have rejected efforts to allow cities to increase the property tax to pay for expanded services. The clear implication is that property owners believe they already are carrying their share of the burden of city and county government.

Now the cities are clamoring for a larger share of state general (principally sales and income tax) revenues and highway user taxes. They have raised the same cry without success in each legislative session since 1957. Each time the legislature has placated them with an amendment to permit increasing the property tax.

Now that the cities understand that such an amendment won't pass, they aren't likely to be so easily placated.

The Municipal League has prepared a brochure with some telling arguments in support of its case.

The league polled city officials and, by a conservative estimate, they believe they need an additional $12.5 million dollars a year just to keep existing municipal services up to a minimum standard.

No one expects the legislature to give cities that much. The cities aren't even asking for that much. But they do want and expect to get an additional $1.6 to $2.1 million a year from general revenues and an additional $1.1 to $1.850,000 from highway revenues.

The legislature isn't likely to release that much state money from either source. The public schools are expecting the lion's share of increased general revenues and any extra highway money probably will go for Faubus' rural road construction program.

So the cities are prepared to accept a token increase in state turnback funds along with statutory authority to levy some new taxes at the local level—taxes which will not require a vote before they can be put into effect. The cities also have proposed an increase of two cents a pack in the cigarette tax with the money going to cities, but they aren't pushing this very hard and don't really expect to get it.

Almost certainly the cities will ask for authority to collect a city automobile license fee. They had this power until 1958 when it was revoked as part of a package deal in which highway revenue turnback was increased. In most cities the fee was $5 a year.

Other possibilities include city sales taxes, city payroll taxes and city gasoline taxes. The legislature believes it has authority to permit these taxes without a constitutional amendment.

No one city is expected to try to collect all these taxes even if the authority is granted. Some probably will try each route. Some may try more than one: for example, an auto license fee

Food Plan Will Be Delayed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Welfare Commissioner Jim Phillips says the federal food stamp programs for Pulaski and Phillips counties will not go into operation until after Jan. 1.

The state department has submitted an operating plan to the Agriculture Department. It is based on the department's experience with the program in the past 18 months in Independence County.

Pulaski and Phillips counties recently were designated by the federal government to participate in the plan, in which welfare recipients get stamps which they may trade for food, rather than surplus commodities.

Phillips said that once the Welfare Department's plan is approved by the Agriculture Department, it will take four to six weeks to train personnel to administer the program, certify stores to be used for the stamps, and make arrangements with banks to handle the stamps.

for street construction and a sales tax for general operating expenses.

And some cities—where there is strong local resistance to increased taxation or little demand for expanded services—will probably continue to struggle along on what the legislature chooses to give them.

The league's brochure states that Arkansas cities receive from all sources revenue of $122.81 in Maryland. Only South Carolina's $37.97 is lower than Arkansas'.

The cities argue that 1,025,000 of the state's approximately 1.8 million residents now live in cities and they are entitled to more consideration by the legislature.

They want the cities' share of general revenues established as a percentage of the total so that cities will get an automatic turnback increase when revenues go up just as state agencies get an escalator increase under the revenue stabilization act.

They are asking specifically for three per cent of the first $120 million and 10 per cent of revenue over $120 million.

This is the only point on which Faubus and the league disagree. The governor goes along with a percentage deal but he isn't ready to give the cities the percentage they want.

The Municipal League estimates that the 3-10 percentage formula would give the cities $4,823,000 a year from general revenues during the next biennium. They now receive $2,840,000 a year.

Besides more money, the cities want from the 1965 legislature:

A law fixing the term of mayors in all first class cities at four years.

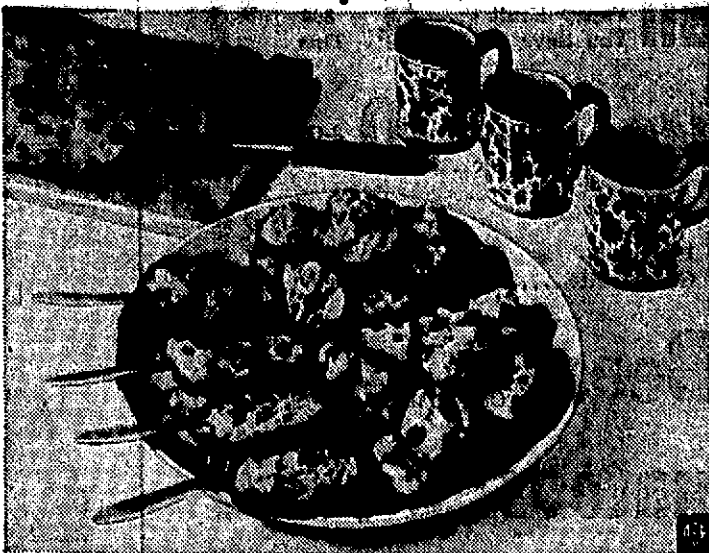

A law making it more difficult for areas a city may want to annex to incorporate as a new city. Specifically they want new incorporations barred within three miles of a city's limits.

A law providing for election of all city officials in even numbered years and elimination of primaries for city elections.

The legislature is likely to go along with most of these requests.

Either Holland or The Netherlands is proper as a name for the Dutch nation.

(Three Cookies From One Batter Are Holiday Timesavers

Here are two new twists on a cookie that's made American history. The first twist is a "cookie pop." The second twist is an "easy-do" bar cookie. And the cookie that made history is the Toll House® Cookie, a scrumptious invention that all began when somebody added nuggets of semi-sweet chocolate chopped from a semi-sweet chocolate candy bar to a traditional drop cookie batter — and created the cookie that's now America's favorite. Semi-sweet chocolate morsels, created just to make the wonderful new cookie, have made history, too, in a whole new art of shortcut chocolate cookery.

You'll find the recipe for authentic Toll House Cookies on every package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. To make the "easy-do" bar cookies, just spread the Toll House Cookie batter evenly in a greased 13" by 9" by 2" pan and bake in a 375° oven for 12 to 14 minutes. The same batter is used for the cookie pops.

Toll House Cookie Pops
Make the batter for authentic Toll House Cookies, following the recipe instructions found on every 6-ounce package of semi-sweet chocolate morsels. To make cookie pops, drop batter by tablespoonfuls 4 inches apart on greased cookie sheet. Flatten slightly with back of spoon. Insert 5-inch sticks — push sticks from edge to about two-thirds through batter. Bake at 375°F. 10 to 12 minutes. Remove gently while warm with wide spatula. Let cool thoroughly before serving. YIELD: approximately 1½ dozen 3" cookies.

Methodists, Reds Battle for Souls

By PRESTON GROVER

LES OUADHIA, Algeria (AP) — The Methodist Church and the Soviet Communist Party are waging a quiet battle for souls in this little upland village in central Algeria.

The Russians have arrived in numbers, assisted by groups from satellite countries. Matched against them are the Rev. John Paolini, from Cranbury, N.J., and his wife, Marilyn. He has been a Methodist minister for 10 years, four of them in Algeria and the past 14 months in this village.

The Russians have started building a village for Algerians not far from here. The job started with considerable fanfare six months ago but has slowed down. Young Russians, Yugoslavs, Czechs, Bulgarians and Algerians are living in tents near a wooden headquarters which displays pictures of Alexei N. Kosygin, new premier of the Soviet Union, and Todor Zhivkov, premier of Bulgaria.

Young men come from the Soviet Union and satellites to work two to four months constructing the village. The aim is to build a model farm village with tile and brick apartment houses instead of the rock houses usual in this part of the country. They are running a small school, teaching French to Algerian teen-agers who didn't write any language at all.

Signs in the headquarters urge everybody to work for communism and against corruption, capitalism and dishonesty. One of Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella's slogans urges Algerians to be ready to die for the country.

Paolini has his home a short distance away, in the village. Russians have called on him and he has visited the Soviet camp but they don't see much of one another. He runs a library where he teaches French and English to Algerians. His wife teaches a kindergarten and primary class. In a little church he preaches in French and a trans-

Eight-year-old Celia Brown of Paragould has figured a way to get Santa into the house, even though it doesn't have a chimney. She drew a make-believe fireplace.

A "southerner" from another land says he likes the "friendliness and Southern hospitality" of the Marked Tree area.

He is Gabriel Stanley, a 21-year-old South African native who is in Marked Tree to study the clothing industry. His father, owns a clothing factory in South Africa.

Alamae Garner of the Marked later converts it into Kabylie since this is Kabylie country — an old center of resistance against the French.

"I tell them stories from the Bible," he said. "They like the stories where the good people triumph over the bad."

Many of those Bible stories also are in the Koran, and they sound familiar to some of the 150 or so villagers who crowd into the church on Sunday.

Young people come to his library located conveniently in a main street of the village. It is far better stocked than the library in the Soviet camp, but he would like more illustrated American magazines.

The Soviet camp will contain a small hospital. The Methodists have been running a hospital at Zeouin also in the Kabylie country for more than 30 years.

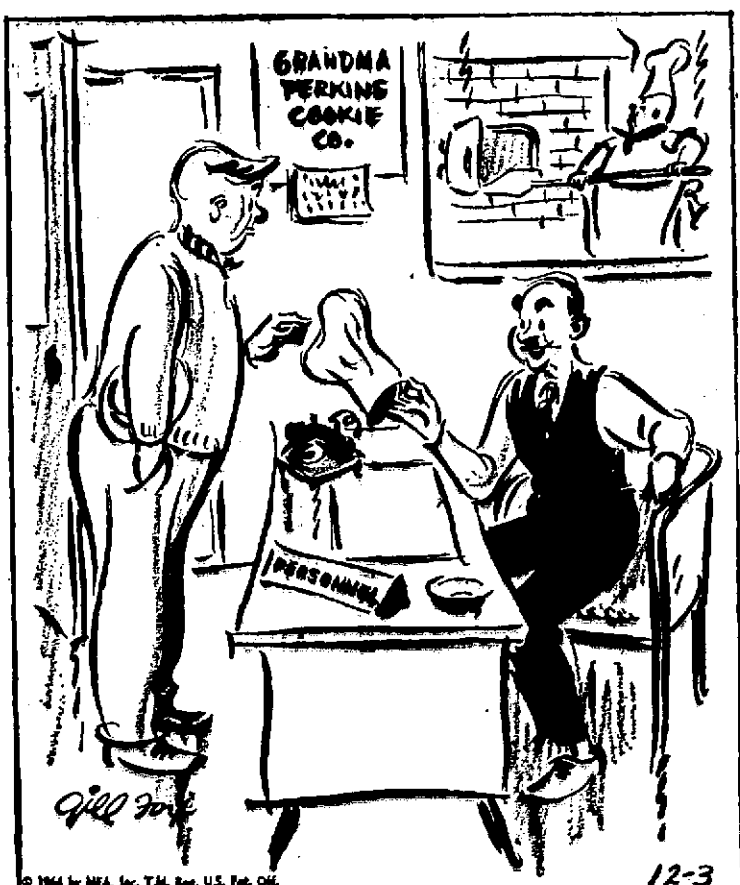

The Russians are expected to bring in machinery to show the villagers modern farming. That will make an impression, but so far the pastor is doing all right.

SIDE GLANCES

By Gil Fox

"You'll like it here except for one thing: we all get crocheted pot holders for Christmas!"

Tree Tribune interviewed Stanley and said his likes are pretty well those of Americans. He has a "fair knowledge of Elvis Presley, the Beatles, the twist, girls and french fries — called chips in South Africa," she wrote in a column.

Paragould postman Howard Miles has taken out his old mail pouch again.

The bag goes into storage most of the year, but during the Christmas season he uses it. It is adorned with a picture of a Poinsettia and a lighted candle on it — and the message, "Shop and Mail Early, Please."

Prosecutor Todd Harrison of Jonesboro tells this tale:

He was helping question a man about a safe burglary and the fellow wasn't cooperating at all.

Finally, Harrison asked if the man knew what it meant to burglarize a safe; to break into a place of business. "Yes sir," came the reply. "Just how do you know," asked Harrison. "Because that's what I am," the man replied. "I'm a safe burglar."

Paul Buchanan of the Batesville Independent relates this hunting tale from neighboring South Missouri.

Missouri Conservation Agent Bob Carter was manning a check point when two men drove up proudly and announced they had their limit of deer — one each — stowed in the trunk of the car.

Carter opened the trunk and found two goats, each neatly tagged in compliance with the law.

"I can't check these. They are goats," Carter told the St. Louis residents.

"You are kidding," one of the men said after a bit of stunned silence.

Said he other, "They have to be deer! We studied up on this!"

Trim A Tuna Christmas Tree

Here's a Christmas tree good enough to eat. Convenient canned tuna blends, via electric beater, with cream cheese and seasonings into a delightful tuna pâté that's easily shaped into a holiday tree. Mayonnaise provides the snowy exterior of the tree and pimientos the gay garlands.

Christmas Tuna Pâté
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons minced parsley
½ cup minced onion
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon Tabasco
3 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
3 to 4 tablespoons mayonnaise
Pimiento
Capers
Farsley sprigs

With an electric beater, beat together the cream cheese, chili sauce, parsley, onion, Worcestershire and Tabasco. Drain tuna; gradually add tuna to cream cheese mixture, beating until thoroughly blended. Chill 8 hours or overnight in tightly covered container. To shape tuna pâté into Christmas tree shape, mold tuna mixture on serving plate into a pyramid. Cover with the mayonnaise, using a small spatula. Make garlands around tree by alternating pimiento strips and capers in two rows around tree. Cut star out of pimiento with miniature star cutter and secure with toothpick on top of tree. Arrange parsley sprigs around bottom of tree. Yield: 4 cups tuna pâté.
